WHAT'S THE COLOUR OF 2019?

09 November 2018

Where you expecting some news about the colours that will be trendy in decoration and design for next year? Well, your wait is over!

The Pantone Colour Institute, a colour specialist, has chosen eight colour palettes. According to them, they will be everywhere in 2019, whether in private spaces, as well as in commercial and service spaces.

In an allusion to food products, we point out the “Cravings” palette used to attract the eyes as well as the taste buds. The spicy reds, the sweet oranges and the fruity purples. We also have the chocolate and pepper tones, accompanied by the warmth of a cappuccino in a neutral tone and a green grassy shade. Think of colours that shine and that lead to experiences that invite you to live in harmony.

Also noteworthy are the “Classico” tones. They are more elegant, like a nod to the fundamentalist of style. This is the palette where the white of a graceful swan, along with camel tones, perfectly match with deep marine, flannel greys, wine reds and with caviar black.

Following the market trends, JORDÃO is always in constant innovation, so that our customer can benefit from the best products for his business, always with cutting-edge colours and designs.
